

Balloon Balls:

Players work on skills above their head.

Version 1: Each player has a balloon and they try to hit up in the air keep it going. This slow moving “ball” will allow players to experience success and work on skills above their heads, which will be important as they grow older.

Version 2: The players pair up in groups of 2 and do the same, but this time they alternate turns hitting the ball up in the air. This version will now require cooperation and much more movement from the players.

Version 3: Each player now has 2 balloons and they try to keep them up in the air without either balloon touching the ground. This will be much more challenging (but fun) for this age group.

Pros will need to constantly remind the players to “hit up” and not to hit out or down.
